Written Answers

a. Briefly describe the nominated non-executive person's employer: the organization's history and past performance (up to 200 words). Required

AbbVie Inc., a global biopharmaceutical company, was founded in 2013 following its strategic spin-off from Abbott Laboratories. This separation enabled AbbVie to concentrate on biopharmaceuticals while Abbott focused on diversified health products. AbbVie's flagship product, Humira, has been a blockbuster, consistently ranking among the best-selling drugs worldwide and revolutionizing the treatment of autoimmune diseases.

Over the years, AbbVie has made significant strides through strategic acquisitions which expanded its offerings in aesthetics and neuroscience with iconic products like Botox. These acquisitions have strengthened AbbVie's market presence across portfolio lines.

Financially, AbbVie has demonstrated robust growth, with its market capitalization exceeding $273 billion as of 2024 a top 3 biopharma cap, ranking higher than Pfizer Inc. This impressive valuation reflects the company's successful integration of acquired assets and its sustained excellence at execution - i.e. educating and marketing the products to Health Care professionals (HCPs) which are customers.

My Role/Problem:

Global pharma marketing relies on a rep sales model whose data is unlinked from actual transactions. This makes it impossible to pinpoint marketing success drivers—was it interaction frequency, effective content, the interaction channel, or something else that changed behavior? As AbbVie's transactions, I tackled this challenge head-on in 2022.
